The Child's Hair.

Don't plait or curl a child's hair very tightly at night. Poor and scanty tresses may very often be traced to having the hair strained back too tightly at night. Better straight hair than curls and waves when young, bought at this price.

SCHOOL FOR HORSES

FORT RENO WILL BE USED AS NEW REMOUNT STATION.

Three-Year-Old Army Animals to Be Broken by Experienced Trainers and Then Taught the Game of War.

El Reno, Okla.—Picturesque old Fort Reno is to be made a "remount station," a place where new mounts will be provided for cavalrymen. It is purposed to turn out more than a thousand head of horses and mules each year, ready for the military.

The cavalrymen who have been stationed at the fort have gone to other posts, and as soon as stables can be built the horse school will open.

England and France have remount stations, but Uncle Sam has not had one heretofore. If the one here proves a success, it is probable that all horses and mules for the United States army hereafter will go through a course of training before graduating into regular army life.

"A horse usually lasts about seven years in the service," said Capt.
Letcher Hardeman, who is here arranging for the opening of "school."
"A mule is good for ten years. The contractors who have been supplying the army horses have been buying them between the ages of four and eight years. Our experiment will be with three-year-olds exclusively.

"There'll be no broncho-busters here.
We don't care for any man who would mount a three-year-old, sock a pair of rowels into his side and fight it until it's broken in spirit and broken in heart. That kind of breaking may do on the plains, but it won't do for the United States army. A good cavalry horse must have a cavalryman's spirit.

"Nor will the cavalrymen themselves do the breaking. This work will be in the hands of civilians, under the supervision of army officers. The best trainers we can find will be employed. After the horses have been broken, cavalrymen will teach them the game of war. No animal is to be roughly handled. Kind treatment goes a long way with a horse in cultivating a good disposition.

"We believe there is economy in a remount station. Not only will we get a better, more desirable lot of horses, but by taking them as three-year-olds we will get from one to five years more service from them than when we took them four to eight years old.
They may be bought cheaper, too.

"A rebellious, unwilling horse can almost disrupt a cavalry movement and the sooner it has 'I. C.'—inspec-ed, Condemned—branded on its side the better off that troop of cavalry is."

About 60 men will be employed at the Fort Reno station, and they expect to break in 800 or 900 head of horses and from 300 to 400 head of mules each year. The old barracks at Fort Reno have practically been abandoned for months. The fort is on a reservation over which bands of Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians still rove, but they commit no depredations. The Darlington agency is just a few miles distant and Lo is careful that he does nothing which might prevent him from drawing his quarterly pay. He remembers, too, the Indian police, mounted on fast ponies, who feel the importance of their blue uniform and brass buttons.

Saw Off Horn; Loosen Hoof.

Allentown, Pa.—A cow belonging to William Mast of Standard scratched her head with her hoof and caught in the latter one of her horns, which is very badly crooked and crumpled.

The cow fell upon her side, and the noise of her struggles awakened the family.

Mr. Mast had no alternative but to saw off the horn in order to release the hoof.
